Hey luminary it is Leslie Tagorda back here for another podcast episode on this upcoming Leo New Moon, and a little bit of Jupiter retrograde. Oh my goodness, I hope that in the middle of this summer, you have been able to find some of your own revolutionary joy and play, and that you've really prioritize this play enjoy as a form of revolution, restoration, right, all the isms, the capitalism, colonialism, imperialism, has done their best to train us that play is a waste of time. When play, as in my last email that I sent out a week ago, I mentioned how play is a necessary part to being able to change and to innovate and to see things through a new perspective. I know personally, this summer, I had made all of his grand plans to play and I was going to learn how to do all these things. And in my ending of July here, when I'm recording this, I'm just have another week left in Hawaii. And I realized, I've been giving myself so much grief for not working on all the things that I had planned. And really just totally dismissing and not being mindful and present. And all of the opportunities for play that I have had. For example, I've been spending a lot of time with family and not really a being completely present and we'll be able to draw, enjoy that. So earlier this week, I made a decision that this final week I was going to do lots of play. So in the evening, around five o'clock I met up with another wonderful astrologer friend Natalie Waldstein, who now lives on a wahoo. She's been here for a few years, and we decided that we were going to try stand up paddleboard yoga, and I've had a regular practice of yoga, not so much recently. But in the in the past years, I would go to yoga at least three or four times a week. I loved yoga so much. And I know Natalie loves yoga a lot as well. But I have never gone stand up paddleboarding. And so if you don't know stand up paddleboarding, they're kind of like these big boards, they look a little bit bigger than a surfboard. And people stand up on them and they either paddle or that you can sit on them, but and paddle out on calm waters are some you know, some really like gung ho people even go a little bit of surfing while they're standing up on these boards. And I'm just like, Whoa, it takes an incredible amount of balance and concentration. And I was like, Who am I going to be able to do this, but you know what, I'm gonna go do this, because I've also been doing some coaching with Dr. Julia Co. Angelou. I have excuse me if I pronounced her name wrong, but she does some flow I, she works on flow. And what she talks about flow is finding that right balance, a challenge and creativity and concentration. And the need for us to push ourselves slightly outside of our comfort zone to gain a new perspective to get into this place of concentration without push or effort. But just that efforting of that little bit of challenge of things that you're having fun. So combining yoga, and I love the beach. I was like, Okay, I'm gonna have to try this, no matter how scared I was, because I was like, There's nothing more that about being scared than just like falling straight on my butt. Or splashing into the water. So I came prepared. I was like, Okay, I'm gonna fall in the water. And I'm going to laugh and I'm going to have fun and I'm going to do all this yoga. So we went, and it was so fun. And my after the hour, and I did not fall in. Of course, Natalie, who's just like an expert yogi. She fell in and I was so proud of her for falling in because I was like, I knew she wasn't holding back. She wasn't afraid. She was just pushing her body to the limit and she fell in the water, so be it. Whereas I was still kind of like not really prepared to fall in I was still a little bit fearful. And so I wasn't pushing my body like how I would on land to go into all of those poses, but I was already at my edge on that sub board doing yoga. It was super fun. I'm gonna go do it again on Friday, Friday morning with my husband because what after our we met in yoga, so why not do some fun this stretch of a stretch of our stretch practice on the water. And so what for you? Have you done This summer to bring in that kind of revolutionary, stretch, joy, play pleasure, even if you're a little bit scared, okay, so if you haven't yet done that for summer, don't worry about it. We're just in the beginning of Leo season. And you already know that Leo is all about having fun finding that inner child find that play, finding that passion and pleasure. Of course, Leo season right in the middle of summer so we can shine our creative brilliance. So there's still plenty of time. And with this Leo season with our Leo, new moon that's coming on Thursday, July 28, at 10:55am Pacific 1:55pm. Eastern, we have the new moon, moon and sun meeting at Leo have five degrees. Mercury is also in Leo at this time, and Jupiter is an Aries at eight degrees, so three degree orb and Jupiter. A couple of hours right after that New Moon Jupiter will be shifting gears from stop to going backwards. I'm recording this already. While Jupiter has been just kind of sitting on this eight degree 43 minute mark, it's been sitting there for a couple of days as it gets ready to shift backwards for its annual retrograde motion. Now all of the planets all besides the sun and the moon all have retrograde phases. And when they go retrograde, that energy that planetary energy is more emphasized, it's put like under a magnifying glass to amplify that energy so that we can really reconsider how we are expressing those energies in our lives and in our work. And so when we're thinking about Jupiter, Jupiter is really about growth and expansion and, and maximizing things. It's about our vision and our deepest wise, it's about it's about morality in terms of judgments of like what is right and what is bad, and, or wrong, rather, and our ultimate why. And so when we think about these joopa terian ideals and how maybe we might be under estimating ourselves or not stretching far enough into our highest potential and our expansive growth. This Jupiter retrograde that we'll be starting will be showing us what we need to realign there. Where haven't we been pushing ourselves. So you hear a theme here in terms of this Leo, and then Jupiter in fiery Aries, there's a lot of passion going on. And so I really encourage you to prioritize play. And if you're like me, who's just really discovering what it means to have fun again, you know, go back to something that you really enjoyed as a child and rediscover that. Or if there's something that you love to do now, like I do, I love yoga, do something that's a little bit extra to push yourself that way. Okay. And so, with this Leo, new moon that's going to be training this beautiful Jupiter who stopped in retrograde, I want you again to prioritize your play, okay, prioritize your play and your joy for your own self. And watch how your the rest of your life ripples and expands forward in your change making work. Okay? With Mercury involved, all you need to do to start is to simply speak it into existence, right? I've been thinking about doing some yoga for a long time. And then finally, I was like, I told my husband, I'm gonna do I told him out loud, I'm gonna go take this class, and then it took me another week to sign up for it. But if I had all these little steps, so with mercury there, bring that out, shake things up and try something that's challenging it fun. Up the heat cuz where the rest of this month is going to be really hot. And I'll be recording a short episode about that August, about the August and the stars. So we'll talk a little bit of what's coming up because there's lots of things coming up. So amp up your personal heat and hotness by wearing something Blaney provocative or exciting. Maybe on your next real or next, social media posts. Share your brilliance by reworking your deepest Whys according to that Jupiter retrograde and shout it out from the rooftops because Jupiter wants it to go big. And remember, speak your joy and your competence into existence. Make sure your desires are big. Leo and Jupiter do not like to underestimate go big and overestimate with your Leo New Moon Ritual to call in all your creative brilliance, joy and heart centered purpose in your competence. Change making work. Remember, this is a meme that I haven't yet found the source for. So if you know I've said this before, and I will say it again, the sun doesn't give a if it blinds you get your dang sunglasses. And you know what? Go buy those fancy ones because it's Leo season. Okay. So let's talk about this Leo New Moon again, exactly 10:55am Pacific. The theme that not only Miller and I co wrote, In our book, new and full moon rituals for entrepreneurs and changemakers is called confidently creating your joy. And we say, the new moon and Leo offers a profound infusion of transitivity confidence and joy. It's a moment to celebrate that, as Martha Graham writes, there's only one of you and all of time. And there are things you do that no one else like you can do. This lunation asks you to tap into what brings you joy, for that is the source of the light you shine in the world. It's time to fully trust that when you do what you love you magnetize attention, power and opportunity. With Jupiter now station retrograde, trying this new mood there's a spirit of growth and evolution present. Remember that confidence doesn't just appear out of nowhere. It comes from practice learning and exploring content through play. The more you learn and grow from both your accomplishments as well as your experiments, aka you might call them failures, but they're just experiments. The more you learn to love and trust yourself no matter what, right that splashing the water that I was so resistant to do. Like I missed out on some like cooling fun. So this is what confidence is all about. Now, Mercury and Uranus will be squaring the signs of Taurus and Leo and they're asking about your demands that you make more room for change your whole joyous self and the way you do work and your business and your life to your own own horn. Smile. Shrug at your quirks Let your freak flag fly, get real and enjoy the glow that comes from being your whole self out loud. Now there's other astrological aspects happening again New Moon training Jupiter at Aries eight degrees asks you if your intentions are big enough? Are you under arrest under estimating your desires. Mercury and Leo have 18 degrees squaring Uranus. Taurus of 18 degrees asks you if you're open hearted to all the unexpected experiences and change that are coming your way. Are you ready for them to set you on your highest path and bring in more Whoo, whoa. And then Mercury in Leo 18 degrees is also training Chiron in Aries at 16 degrees. Oh, yes, thank you Chiron because they're asking if we if you've been communicating the wisdom you've learned from your wounds? Are you ready to use this with courage? Okay, now, if you know how to read your natal chart, I want you to grab your natal chart. And I want you to check out where that five degree of Leo is in which house because this is how you can personalize your new moon. Because remember, each of those houses are areas of your life and areas of your business. And wherever that New Moon wherever that New Moon is, by House is activating that one part of your life and your business asking for a fresh intention. So this is a perfect way to personalize your new moon. So I have a few new moon personalizations here that I want to share with you. I'll be sharing them by their rising signs and also giving you more specifics as far as the house that's being activated. So if you don't know just go default to your rising sign. And if you do want to know how to read your natal chart, so that you can personalize your new moons and full moon rituals and other transits that I encourage you to sign up for Written in the Stars. It is my foundational training on how to read how to begin to read your natal chart for your change making work. And I haven't on demand, but guess what? I have coming up alive in August August. I believe it's the week of August 22. And I'll share a little bit more about written in the stars but it's a five a five day mini training. When we do it live. I come on every day for question and answers. It's super fun. Hundreds of people have already gone through this training. And it teaches everybody my philosophy the way that I see
