I have an idea. And I'm curious if this would be acceptable to you. I was going to create a podcast on this eclipse and just kind of the inner healing journey. And I feel that our session. Good I like so took us on that entire journey.

M Mina Raver 00:21
Yeah, I feel like we just went a really long way. And

L Leslie Tagorda 00:26
I am wondering if you would be open to me sharing parts or all of this session on my podcast, and you can say no, and you could think about it to

L Leslie Tagorda 00:45
Welcome to start hiring astrology for changemakers I'm Leslie Tagorda. Your guide, a Hawaii born Filipino Jewish astrologer who loves navigating visionaries like you did the spiritual journey of your work so that you can be inspired to lead by your chart and become the luminary leader, you are born to be a luminary. It's Leslie Tagorda. And today I wanted to share with you about this upcoming and oh, so powerful total lunar eclipse in Taurus on Tuesday, November 8, and it is a total lunar eclipse for those of us in the states on the West Coast, you will be able to see it if you can get up early in the morning. Now regardless if you can see it or not see it, you are certainly going to feel it and you likely are already feeling it. The energies have been opened up since our new moon solar eclipse a couple of weeks ago. Really this is an extension of our eclipse season that we had in the spring when we had the Taurus New Moon and the Scorpio Full Moon. Well, regardless, eclipses are huge, huge energies, huge shifts in energy consciousness, and our connection to our highest selves. Not to mention our ancestors, like this is all at peak. And this eclipse is all that on steroids. Poof, lots of shifts happening. And I'm sure for you to lots of shifts, lots of loss, lots of coming face to face with our fears. And there is a reason for that. As it happens this morning, I had a one on one session with a wonderful client and friend who has been working with me all year in mentorship and astrological guidance. She was sharing with me where she was stuck in developing curriculum for her program of over 30 members 30 change makers. And this is when we got to talking about the big missing piece of the inner journey. That how no matter no amount of strategies and how to use philosophy, rationalizations, no matter what. That's not going to get people the results they desire if they don't face their fears. That's right. Remember in the last episode, I was talking about how there's this inner journey that it runs in parallel with our external journey where we need to heal, but oh my goodness. Nina's chard, was being impacted not only by this eclipse, with Saturn T squaring the sun, moon, bringing up her values and fears. But also Mars retrograding is transiting over her natal Chiron in Gemini, bringing her face to face with her core wounds around her smarts and her beliefs. As we work through our session, it was everything I wanted to share about the power of this eclipse, to shatter shame and to let go of fear by doing one simple yet profound thing. Acceptance, accepting that we are scared of the unknown, scared of failure, terrified of being noticed or never being noticed. Accepting that we have uncomfortable feelings that hold us back from sharing our voice, creativity and creating connections with others. All of this in this upcoming Eclipse. And when we do this one radical acceptance work of our soft tender shameful parts that we hide from even ourselves. This red Full Moon conjunct Uranus and the North Node catapults us into revolutionising the value of our emotions to connect to our highest potentials. Nina raver graciously permitted me to share her one on one session with you. I know that her story will resonate with you this eclipse season and sparked you to do the inner journey that is so necessary in your change making work. Thank you Mina for allowing me to share your potent one on one session with the listeners. here before we dive into this episode, I wanted to let you know that I'll be opening the doors to one on one mentorship with me in 2023. Spots of course are limited I have only have so much capacity and I'll be sharing how to do that in my upcoming masterclass called radiate that we'll be delivering for free all new contests on November 14 2022. So head on over to starpower.com forward slash radiate to sign up for this free masterclass. So you can activate the luminary leader within as I share with you five actionable keys to integrate astrology into your inner and outer journey. Full Moon eclipses are like fully illuminating. And it's still it's still because of all of this Scorpio energy. Scorpio always wants us to like let go let go let go eliminate dig deep. Right? Because like, I think that you I know, you know this because of just like, your, your upbringing and coming into full realization and facing your fears, and, and even the way that you sit with your kids and you accept their emotions. And you just, you let them have all of those feelings, right? Generally us as a society or us as like humans, adults, were like, Oh, we're gonna rationalize or philosophize? Are your master emotions, right? And we can't rationalize our emotions. We can't philosophize our emotions, we just have to let accept them. And in that acceptance of them is how they can fall away.

M

Mina Raver 06:49

So I have to say in that whole thing, we use words like rationalize and master and all of these things, but what it really is is sterilize, we're trying to sterilize a labor force to make them more pliable. And so when we're thinking about or when I'm thinking about it, it's not whether or not we, you know, rationalize or whatever else. It's whether or not we integrate all of these aspects, whether or not we're willing to be dirty little ecologies of our own.

Right, like, I shouldn't feel afraid. I shouldn't feel stuck. I shouldn't feel like I procrastinate, right. And then so yeah, I love that idea of like sterilizing or taking away all of the emotion. Right. But that's the thing about being a human and being embodied. Motions are really like, are part of us and so you know, at this the moon, sorry, the sun 16 days a Scorpio, the moon 16 degrees of Scorpio next to Uranus, right? Like we're already feeling like if your rawness is about to change, and score, like revolutionize our emotions into our fullest potential and value. Taurus. And the Scorpio right is letting go of the things that hold us back from speaking, creating and connecting. Almost all of those things that if we think about the just like the root of what prevents us from speaking up what prevents us from creating, at our soul level, what creates what prevents us from connecting that deepest level? It's fear.

M Mina Raver 08:40

Oh my gosh, okay. So now I have to tell you the curriculum that I'm writing right now, I'm teaching disruption, and core belief challenging. Yes. I'm like writing the curriculum to teach people how to go through challenge their core beliefs, figure out the historical bearings behind what they've learned, and use research for disruption.

L Leslie Tagorda 09:03

So I love that, right? Yeah, that's what I hear. And I'm just gonna poke a little few holes in there, please. It's still a lot of intellectualizing, rationalizing and philosophizing.

M Mina Raver 09:17

Yeah, I know. I know. And that's exactly I think, where the agony is coming in. Yeah. Because, like I said, I'm agonizing over this curriculum. I'm trying to teach disruption. Right, I'm trying to teach people how to figure out their own disruptive patterns, how to how to identify themselves, how to resurface their, their nature, how to de sterilize and recertify their being. Yeah, but it is it's still all of the, the intellectual stuff and maybe it's just because that's the part of building up this curriculum I'm outlining right now.

L Leslie Tagorda 09:59

What What if? Right? Were doing this deep dive of beliefs of stories to get to the root of the fear? Right? Where does it come from? Where How did it get embedded? Did it get embedded because of society? Culture? Education, family? Exactly. Right. And so you can lead them down that path. But once they discover, they're going to be like, I think, and correct me if I'm wrong, where you're struggling is, well, what next? How to get to the human part of it. Yeah. And it's easy for me to do the like technical parts of here's how you figure it out. But yeah, structuring a framework for for what's next or better yet, teaching people how to figure out what's next, because there is no step by step process for that next part, the idea, right, if we come back to this root thing that keeps us stuck, right? This fear of unknown, of uncertainty, it's always easier to choose the known path. Even if the unknown path keeps us stuck in this place of pain of challenge of a mark going where we want to go. Right? So part of this ability to an earth fear to get familiar with it, what you're doing by showing them all these different ways to challenge and dismantle their beliefs, is you're showing them like, Okay, so these are your knowns. Will you still keep on choosing these gnomes? Because it's safe, even though it's like, it's not where you want to be? Or despite the gnomes? Will you take a leap of faith and fear? Right, that still within that faith is embedded fear? Because you're jumping into the unknown. And then in that gap from the known to the unknown, it's what is that emotional charge? There's no right or wrong answer about that emotional charge, where it's fear of failure, shame, guilt, disappointment, whatever those emotions are. But it's not for us to pluck out those emotions. It's for us to come face to face and embrace those emotions,

M

Mina Raver 10:37

Leslie Tagorda 11:03

M

Mina Raver 12:53

indulge, indulge in

L

Leslie Tagorda 12:58

maybe rationalizing and philosophizing, to get to the roots of where this emotion comes from to under to name it, to understand it,

M

Mina Raver 13:08

Apply to apply it, to apply that to apply it, what's the word I'm looking for here? Because a lot of the a lot of the things that we feel we miss attribute to, you know, the things we think about the world, or the things that we've been taught to the shirts, right, I might have a fear of doing something. And when I when I apply that fear to a complimentary should say, I'm afraid of signing up for a new class, I can easily apply that fear to time scarcity. But going deeper, the fear might be truly that if I learn these things, I will it will make it harder for me to access my actual knowing around these things. As an example,

L

Leslie Tagorda 13:59

maybe scarcitv. right? Anvtime we have this scarcitv. there's not enouahness we can iust flip it on the head and just be like, the really the root is I'm not enough. Right? Right. And so what you're learning and what I feel like is being awakened right now. And all of us, especially those of us that are in this thought leadership is that we're seeing that strategies, how to choose, do not allow us to succeed and to lead and to get the results that we want in order to for these strategies, like no amount of strategies are going to work until we do the inner journey and the inner leadership. And so this is that gap that you've discovered. But you thought you're you're leading them like you're you're there on that inner journey, and now connecting that thought into The inner journey is that there is no magic pill that is going to make you not be afraid. That deep emotional pain. That's what the Scorpio energy is. It doesn't want to just bring it up to the light. It wants to hold space for it. It wants to bring it to the light because in the light, then we can see it for what it is we can accept it. And in accepting it,

M

it dismantles right before this. I just wrote a all my podcasts or essays, but I wrote a podcast about when I was a turf. When I was like 13, and I first came across transgenderism. I was very against it. And I wrote about why and the internalization of trauma because I'm non binary and in the 90s, that was tomboy. And the abuse around that. So like right before this I just wrote about Yeah, exactly what you're talking about. procrastinating. Right, but this is, there's no procrastinating either. Right, right. Dismantling procrastination.

L

Leslie Tagorda 16:05

M

Mina Raver 16:10

Exactly. That's, I mean, that is something I've got to get out of my head. But I'm writing this curriculum. And what keeps wanting to come up is exactly what you're talking about is the actual dismantling version of that. Right. It was the process of challenging why I was uncomfortable with transgenderism led me to realize that it was because I was defending my oppressors definition of my gender, which is dumb, and how I was, right, exactly how I had accepted an identity based on gender trauma, to such a deep degree that I was willing to defend it at the expense of an opportunity, and now in finding that then realize that trans women have built their identity of womanhood without those traumas, and therefore heavy, stronger, a concept of what it means to embody yourself and the gender aspect of your identity. Right. So dismantling, just viewing, accepting and the natural order of dismantling i.

L

Leslie Tagorda 17:29

So in the as you were sharing your story of your, your anti trans SNESs

M

Mina Raver 17:39

I swear to God, it was like a week when I was 13. It was not a long term thing. I'm so embarrassed by it, but it's a story that has to be told. Yeah, there's no shame in that, right. Because there's realization that I was I was wrong about that. But I have to reflect back what I think you're saying about that. Is that this dismantling of like, where that that protection was, right? Anytime we're like, anti something we're actually protecting ourselves from from something from some kind of pain. Right, exactly. And then if we want to talk about what you were, what you learned, what you are protecting yourself from, right. Well, when we unravel it, and this is this is what you're doing with the deep guy and around cultural stories, societal stories, dismantling around beliefs and mindset and all those things, boss, like, yeah, all those things, and you're like, Okay, well, I realize now there was a colonial mindset, right, because I if, if we think about the four peer, the four things of fear is fight flight, freeze or fawn. So like in that place, you are fighting the oppressor, from fear, like survival of your of your identity, because you are protecting yourself against being bullied, being harassed, because you are already in that place of that non binary, but you're able to work through that in the span of a week, where you could like, look back and go, Oh, this is why I was doing that. I see how I was protecting myself. And I see how that was wrong. So now I see how I can choose to go a different way.

L Leslie Tagorda 17:49

M Mina Raver 19:31

And that's the energy that's coming through. Like at first I was like, Why in the hell do I want to tell people out loud that I was turf once. But that's why to showcase exactly the steps that you just laid out. That's exactly what's on here.

L Leslie Tagorda 19:47

It's ownership. It's like drastic dismantling of mindset and belief set that you are able to change for the better. Right? Yes, it's scary. Yes, it's shameful. And you can acknowledge those feelings, right? Like, I didn't want to share this story with you because I'm ashamed. Because this is not what I believe now. And I'm guilty, because this is the kind of behavior that I abhor and others. Right?

M Mina Raver 20:21

But I was so disgusted with it even as a kid tested. It is it's disgusting. And I couldn't sit with it. I couldn't even sit with it for a week. God I'm gonna cry. But But that's exactly it, right. And so we have a lot of people who are choosing to stick with it because they don't want to work don't know how to. Or they'll tell their identity.

L Leslie Tagorda 20:45

Yeah, they'll make up some set some some excuse around

M

Mina Raver 20:48

principle, principles are informed by the world that we accept. So even if it's your damn principles, you have got to look at that. And where the stories that inform that principle came from talking about redefining our principles. Mars Retrograde in Gemini, so Gemini will be mercury. So it's kind of like this, this idea of like, almost like a Mercury Retrograde, which lately I've been thinking of Mercury Retrograde as like really this time to like change our mindset, like challenge and dismantle our mindset. And, you know, like, I really love this kind of like, pulling back the layers of all of our colonial mentality and, but for those of us who were brought up and colonized societies like as the Filipino Jew, which is very scary to say right now with all the anti semitism around right, this Mars Retrograde is really asking us to re energize reprioritize reaffirm our principles. Mars at its highest is an advocate. Mars in Gemini is an advocate using words communication, writing calls to action. So the fact that Mars going through your ninth house of belief is tracing back and giving you your purpose and vision and who you really are. It's not like it's like, you're like having to like, tear it down and put it up. You're connecting these dots in your purpose and your vision with re principle lysing is that not even a word? Re principle laying your message, right? Tada. You have natal Chiron in Gemini. You have natal Mars, Mars, in January, you know from now January is going to be going back all the way to eight degrees of, of Gemini. Mars will be going back to eight degrees of Gemini. So it's, you know, it already passed these ones when it was going forward. So when you had your Mars return, you're like, Ah, I have all this energy. I have this new conviction. Right? And I haven't seen you. Like, did this really happen? And then why it really happened? Mars on your natal Chiron energizing old wounds, old belief sets old thought sets I would guess it was a couple of weeks ago when you remembered the story about being a tomboy people not understanding you. You not understanding you. You're not feeling that my like I don't even know my beliefs anymore. Is it safe to believe what I believe? Is it safe to to be understood and heard? Right So Mars already went past it once opening up the Pandora's Box of the things that are going to get re energize reprint supplies. What this new paradigm and what this fricking Eclipse is showing us is to say okay, I am ashamed. I should have caught that. What does it feel like to not be smart enough? Right? Without any purpose, except to fully feel? What does that feel like when you just have permission to just feel disappointed to feel a little bit shameful?

Leslie Tagorda 20:59

M

Mina Raver 24:33

What's funny is this as soon as I am okay, without or acknowledge it. I immediately get excited. It goes away. It goes away. I immediately get excited. Like, I didn't know that. Oh, I feel really bad. Or there's a whole wide world of information about that. Go get it.

Leslie Tagorda 24:56

Like our rational mind, our societal mind are colonized as mine is saying, We got to work hard and find strategies to overcome and dismantle our fears. We just have to define and acknowledge them. Accept them. Be aware of them and say, Okay, I feel that way right now. And it's okay. It's okay to feel disappointed right now myself. The other thing with the clips, right, so notice this big red triangle is called T square. So T square happens when there is opposition, except this time, we have the Northfield and Uranus joining the moon. So like extra like quantum leap into our future. And then we have the Sun conjunct to Venus and Mercury and the south node. We have like this, like, huge opposition and the sky on top of Eclipse, like it is like so many energies and they piled up facing off with each other. When we have these face offs. We're asking to make a choice, a commitment we're seeing and full illumination what we have. Now we have a T square a pivot point. That is refereeing who is right here is the moon. Iran is going to win emotional, emotional quantum leaps or emotional revolution. That's for our highest potential. That's this. That's this Taurus count. Or is it the Scorpio camp, this coming face to face all the things that block us from sharing our voice creation and attraction, getting stuck in past patterns of shame. And I think Scorpios deepest fear is shame.

M

Mina Raver 26:40

I can feel that right now. Like all of the stories I've been writing up are things that I've kept secret because of shame.

Leslie Tagorda 26:48

Yeah. And then we have Saturn, not retrograde anymore moving forward at 18 degrees of Aquarius. So we have a fixed t square. This is like peanut brittle, it is ready to crack. It is strong, but it is not solid. Right? You know peanut brittle. When you have that candy. It's like it can crack your teeth. But once it cracks, it just shatters. This is shatter energy. The shadow side of Saturn societal constructs corporations, governments institutionalized at its highest Saturn is inner authority and responsibility in their commitment to Saturn here is playing the referee. Saturn is saying, Okay, it's time to get to what's the expertise already in your bones to dismantle shame, bring it to the surface to bring it to light. So it allows it to just Yeah, we all have shame. What are the parts of you that we just don't want others to see? And then this Taurus energy here revolutionising our emotions for our highest potential and worthiness. Lots of things are coming through right now that lots of things have to die earlier, all of the energy are what I was mentioning about missing the gaps in your curriculum, right? Like, where am I going with this curriculum around accepting and analyzing those painful places, code from a parenting book I just read how to talk to your children, so they will listen and how to how to listen to your children. So they'll talk really the key at the very end, I just finished the book today was like, she's like all these parents come in wanting all these strategies, and they want to get to the meat of everything. And I tell them right at the very beginning, it's like really simply accepting your child's emotions. And she gives us all these tools and strategies. And by the end of the six weeks, she's like, the parents are just always amazed that first they don't believe that accepting emotions is the game changer. And at the end of the course, or the book, after they practice these things for weeks, and it's about accepting these emotions. And I was just like, I've been noticing this in my clients as well, because I'm kind of on that same journey as you with doing all the Chiron work right now. And watching some of my clients who, like you just like, take a leap of action, right? You're doing the thing. You're like, you know, like you're coming to me for a little bit of guidance, a little bit of bumpers, but we're not having to do these massive things for you to take that next jump are some of my clients. We go through all of these different frameworks, we spell out their brands, we come up with all of these wonderful ideas, we name things, you build them the website, and there's a failure to launch on. What is that? Right I mean, I know it's fear Where does that fear come in? Because I know that when we, when a client leaves my sessions, they're very inspired and activated. Right? But there's a gap. And I'm like, and this is when my readings over the last year have really shifted into like healing. And acknowledging the soft spots. I'm like, Whoa, why did we talk about the moon for like 90 minutes to an Earth, like these different ways that we are not able to nourish ourselves or our caretakers model that it wasn't safe for us to be nourished? What does Chiron say about our core wounds? And how we're supposed to alchemize? That? That's the missing piece? You found it, too. I know, we have to reinvent these stories for modern times. And I know you're doing that I know, I'm doing that. Right, because we are waking up these latent revolutionaries. And, you know, I think, recently as I've been kind of redefining my brand and evolving my brand, because, yeah, you have, yeah, and that is like, what is a change maker? Because like, I know that there are people in there that they have to disrupt, right, they can't fit in the traditional conventional norms. And then instead, they just like feel that they suck because they don't fit in. That is a change maker. was drinking from the inside out. Your visual brand, Libra cancer. Right? That softness, that beauty that bridge building needs to come through. And yeah, let's talk about this. This procrastination. This is also something else, right? There's no such thing as procrastination. If we're procrastinating. Why are you procrastinating? Or we don't want to do it. Why don't we want to do it? Is that we don't want to do it because it's like, it doesn't have any meaning, or does it feel like a waste of time.

But in our work and

Leslie Tagorda 32:09

our chosen passion in our field, where we're the bosses, if we're procrastinating on something, there's something that's misaligned.

Mina Raver 32:18

Now I'm questioning Am I procrastinating or am I balancing? Because now that I think about it, I'm writing out the curriculum, which I'm loving, I'm going back over my books, which I'm loving. But what I'm calling procrastinating is art, art expression, the the being living being versions of the curriculum that I'm building out. So it's not even separate.

Leslie Tagorda 32:44

Yeah, we have like death to the shoulds. Right? To the sheets, because the should is telling us that we're procrastinating yet. You're not really procrastinating because you're creating other beautiful things that need to come through right now.

Mina Raver 33:01

Yeah, that's not even procrastinating. It's not preparing the new I called it that. It's really cool because colonial mentality that capitalism has embedded procrastination, because people have like, creating efficiency on the job line. If people are not doing what they're should be doing, then that's holding back the productivity. But when you work for yourself why can't we go where we need to be going?

M Mina Raver 33:41

Isn't it funny, like I broke down my old business and I rebuilt this specifically to be able to do this specific thing. This right here to be able to switch off what I'm working on as I feel like it because I channel and what wants to come through is different all the time. And I have very little control over that. Yeah, to do my best work. I have to have space and a lot of liberty and I'm actually admonishing myself for soaking up the life I vote for myself. Thank you for exposing that.

L Leslie Tagorda 34:17

Isn't that funny? We all do that I just holding up a mirror. I do it to her just like bringing visibility to it. This I mean, this eclipse is really asking you to come to an earth all the shame around your worthiness and your values. And to be to sit with them and just say okay, let's acknowledge these feelings. Yeah, it sounds like a Chiron wound to me. Right? Because Mars is so close to Chiron right now, your natal Chiron. And you know Mars is going to be dancing with your natal Mars in your natal chi Right. And so Mars is basically reactivating your Chiron wound at the moment. And then also natal Chiron, sorry transiting Chiron is is right in between your mercury and your son. And so the Chiron story, right, is he has he's called the wounded healer. Because ultimately, he ultimately he's able to heal in others, but he cannot heal in himself. What what he really means in our natal chart, and we all have Chiron and obviously your Chiron is really important because Chiron is closest to your midheaven it's like one of the anytime we have a planet that's near one of our angles, they have extra duty. Right? Yeah, they because it's so visible in your chart. It's a part of your expertise part of your story. Okay. Chiron he had his original wound was betrayal and abandonment from his mother. Chiron was a product of sexual insults a sexual assault. And he was half horse and half human, because his dad is actually Saturn, right there. So Chiron in your natal chart is really opposing Saturn. And so you can't make this shit up. We need to know the mythology, we know. And we get to reinvent it from modern or modern narratives so that we don't get succumbed by patriarchy and capitalism and imperialism. Right.

M Mina Raver 36:41

It's just it's it's, it's it is requesting attention for me how much of the story you're telling me actually aligns with the story of my being brought into the world? Yes. And also having that like, I'm gonna have you on the phone. Why don't we talk about this? I will be quiet. No, no.

L Leslie Tagorda 37:05

So this Chiron because Mars is reactivating, it's re energizing your old wounds your old stories, right? This is super, super important. Right? So first wound Chiron, mother, Nizam second wound, he, his half man, half horse, we're, you know, he's actually he's immortal because his dad is Saturn. And he has this inner polarity of like, Am I an animal or am I a spiritual being? Right? All of us have this duality. Third wound. He was he was already a trained herbalist, botanist, astrologer, musician. Apollo took him under his arms, Apollo and Artemis taught him all of his healing arts touch taught him archery, he was getting his bow, and he was dipping it into the poison of Hydra. There's two different stories of how he actually hurts himself. But this is his main story that people know him for is that this poison arrow with HYDRA, the scorpions, poison arrow, gashes him in his left foot, because he's immortal, he cannot die. Yet this pain is like beyond anything. So he's running around with this painful, like festering like, wound that he cannot heal himself. And he's going even more traveling around the world looking for all the ways to heal his wound, but he can never heal. Right? But because he's picked up so many different healing modalities, people keep on coming to him so that he can heal them because he's able to heal others. Okay, so Chiron represents the Drama Triangle, you've heard of the Drama Triangle of the perpetrator or the victim and the and the martyr, right? We can get stuck in fighting or always being the victim and blaming others or try running around saving everybody instead of like, actually like doing our own inner work. Right. The highest element of Chiron, what you're doing is you're jumping out of the Drama Triangle to become the wounded healer. What this means is, you are learning at this point because Mars is energizing your Chiron wounds, everything that you've learned to overcome, accommodate and exceed your primal wounds, of abandonment of being taken away your smarts or or like not being able to express truly how you wanted your smarts and your beliefs and your thoughts and your intellect. All of those things, all of those dots that you have just like your research Your, your acrobatics and your intellect your, your, your out of this world ideas and ideals that you have gained because of your of your core wounds. That is where your personal value and wisdom lies. Okay, so that is being energized right now. I want you to curious with all of the things that you have learned to accommodate and exceed in those places of mindset, intellect, beliefs, thoughts, and how the story of you is a replication of that core signature wound. This is painful, deep work. And this eclipse is asking you to do this now.

M

Mina Raver 40:52

That has, I mean, it has to be done. It's entirely to embedded in, in my not my identity, but my nature.

It's there for a reason. But that's the beauty of Chiron because we are able to alkalize, Chiron and our work Chiron amplifies, amplifies our value. It's about your accomplishments. It's how you got to your accomplishments, that is what's valuable. And it shows others that desire to work with you to partner with you to collaborate with you to seek your guidance that shows them that you're the right person, because they too, have gone through similar things.

M Mina Raver 41:54

That's actually really powerful this year, I haven't had any one on ones, because I either attracted the wrong people, or the people I wanted to work with chose someone else.

L Leslie Tagorda 42:06

Were you being Did you share these stories of how you came to your, your research or knowledge or wisdom? No, I don't know what would have changed if you had shared them.

M Mina Raver 42:21

That's how I'm wondering too. And I hear over and over. I mean, multiple of these people have come back to me and apologize because they wasted this money with other people. But they wasted money with other people, almost. I mean, most consistently, because they assumed that they knew more. They were intrigued by my information. But they didn't know enough about me ultimately, or how I found this information and how that process was going to better them to make the investment.

L Leslie Tagorda 42:57

Well, Chiron and Gemini basing off with Saturn. So it didn't waste that, yes, they wasted money. But they did gain something from that money that they invested. They gained full recognition that you're the expert. And that was just gonna cost them a little bit more money. But they can still tap into your wisdom. Right? That money is never wasted, right? Just like that procrastination, right? Like, we can blame coaches for all of these things. It's never wasted. We learned something about that we needed at that time. Well, eclipse season, you know, the veil is down right now. Right? So do know that you're in the right place at the right time. These These, these places of fear.
